Debit Card Fraud

A criminal had recently spoofed local bank's phone numbers (including Bank of Mauston) and claimed to be from the bank's fraud department. They claimed there were suspicious charges on customer's accounts that were made via debit card. The scammer then used fear and urgency to try to get customers to share debit card information and digital banking credentials. They even asked customers to put their debit cards in their mailbox to be picked up for further "investigation". What should you do if you ever get a phone call from your bank, IRS, Social Security Administration, healthcare provider, or police department?

- PAUSE
- Does the call contain hallmarks of a scam?
- Is it creating urgency?

- Is it an unexpected phone call? Have you received any mail correspondence regarding this matter?
- Is the caller asking you for login credentials, card or account information?
- Is the caller asking for payment via gift cards, debit cards, or wire transfer?
- Is the caller sending you a link they want you to click on?
- If you are unsure, it is never rude to just hang up and get another opinion.

Remember, your bank will never call you and ask for personal information. It is best to just say you need to hang up, then call back on a trusted phone number. NOT the phone number sent to you via text or email.
